Kids in Common's activities exemplify how it promotes cross sector collaboration, identifies and supports systems change, and leverages resources. The Children's Agenda provides a common vision through which community leaders, governmental agencies, public and private funders, and community-based organizations can collaborate to measurably improve children's lives. Created on the premise "What gets measured, gets done." Kids in Common asked its community to identify its top priorities and goals for children and ten measurable outcomes. Kids in Common will use these outcomes to focus its efforts to improve children's lives and track its progress over the next ten years by tracking the data.
